SO. PARIS TEAMS PLAY HERE FRIDAY

Varsity Team Has Won 2 and Lost 1—Scrappy Second Team Undeclared

South Paris High School teams will invade William Bingham Gymnasium Friday night to test the power of the Blue and Gold. The Gould second team has been a great drawing card, having been undefeated thus far. They will take on the South Paris underclass at 7:30 and are favored to win due to their surprising opposition to the big Rumford second team which they defeated 23-21.

The Gould varsity will meet a hard fighting Paris quintet at 8:30. The visitors have a star ball tosser in Stiles and with a number of veterans should prove a strong outfit. Don Stanley, who has been ill and could not play against Rumford, will be back in the lineup. His return will strengthen the team, but Bill Wight's ankle injury sustained against Rumford, is still bothering him and his loss to the team would be a decided handicap as he has been playing a stellar defensive game.

The starting lineup for Gould is still undecided, as Coach Anderson is determined to find a quintet of fighters that can follow the ball.

Berry and "Bob" Browne have been showing some fine work and may get a chance at a varsity position. A great deal of work has been done on "following in" shots and playing the ball hard and it is hoped that some of the more placid individuals on the squad will show fighting ability here Friday night. Todd of Mexico will do the officiating.

ANOTHER YEAR Grace Bulkley

Another year is now starting. At midnight I heard the bells ring. Their final farewell to the old year; Oh, what will the new year bring?

Shadow and then some sunshine— Neither can always last; Sorrow and pain and pleasure— Just as the year that's past.

None can foretell the future, It's hidden beyond our gaze; But most of the year that's coming Will be made of commonplace days.

Morning and noon and evening Filled up with little things, Days of rest and of labor— These are what each year brings.

Go then into the future, With never a thought of fear; Trusting the hand that leads us To guide for another year.

TYLER'S GARAGE BURNED FRIDAY

Bryant Pond Garage Loss About $7,500—Occupants Barely Escape

The two and one-half story building at Bryant Pond, occupied by Harold Tyler as garage and residence was destroyed by fire last Friday evening about 8:30. The fire was discovered in the office on the first floor, and had such a start that Mr. and Mrs. Tyler and their infant daughter were fortunate in being able to escape the flames.

Five automobiles were saved but two cars were lost together with the garage stock and everything else. It is thought that the fire was caused by a defective furnace. The loss has been estimated at $7,500.

TRUCK SMASHES BOWDOIN CAR

Superintendent of Schools E. R. Bowdoin escaped with a bad shaking up this (Thursday) forenoon when a large Mack fruit truck collided with the rear end of his Ford sedan at the foot of the hill near F. F. Bean's on the Bethel-Locke Mills road. The driver of the truck attempted to pass Mr. Bowdoin and left the road after the crash. The body of the sedan is ruined and it is remarkable that Mr. Bowdoin was not injured.

ABBOTT TO BE CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY ATTORNEY IN JUNE PRIMARIES

E. Walker Abbott of South Paris, former County Attorney for one term during the years 1931 and 1932, has announced that he will be a candidate for his customary second term as County Attorney on the Republican ticket at the Primaries next June 18th.

BETHEL MUSICIANS

The Bethel Musicians held their Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. S. S. Greenleaf with a good attendance. They opened the meeting with their club song, accompanied by Barbara Hall.

Mendelssohn was the composer chosen to study at this meeting. Barbara Hall gave a sketch of his life. The following Christmas program was given:

Song, O Little Town of Bethlehem, accompanied by Maynard Austin Moon Rocket March.

Arlene Greenleaf Duet, Tony's New Drum, Irene and Emma Blako Solo, Silent Night.

Duet, Country Gardens, by Percy Granger, Barbara and Muriel Hall Solo, The March of the Wee Folks, Barbara Luxton

The tree was then unloaded of gifts to each and several for the teacher, Miss Chase. Then followed a social hour with musical games and singing our club song, Jingle Bells.

BOBCAT KILLED NEAR HOUSE

A large bobcat came out of the woods near the home of George Conner in Albany Monday. He remained around the barn for some time and drank a large amount of water from the tub. He then sat down near the house, where he was shot by Arthur Cross.

Free Transportation to the dance at Locke Mills Saturday night, Dec. 6, leaving Bryant's Store at 8 p. m.

FOOTLIGHT CLUB TO GIVE COMEDY

Proceeds of "Funny Phinnie" Next Week To Be Given to Boy Scouts

And funny Phinnie is good and funny, too. He is such a dumb guy that he is actually unique. Some recommendation, isn't it?

He has no interest in the ladies, but in spite of his indifference they are very fond of him. Not one, but several.

In harmony with the times funny Phinnie is a maker of puns. By some authorities puns are said to be the lowest form of wit, by others equally great they are declared the highest form of humor. Any way, Phinnie makes them, on all occasions, in spite of himself.

The title role of this hilarious comedy is played by a prominent citizen and town official. He is supported by an excellent cast; every one good for plenty of laughs and entertainment. "Funny Phinnie" is a presentation of Bethel Footlighters, Odeon Hall, January 12, 1934.

There's a strong-minded female with a hen-pecked husband. A handsome leading lady gives the leading man a merry chase. There's a half-cracked misogynarian that treasures an invention and acts as a foil to four excellent comedians.

Be sure and see Funny Phinnie with the following cast:

Phineas Pike, Leslie Davis
Mrs. Plummer, Mrs. W. H. Thurston
Richard Kendall, Wilbur Myers
Mr. Glucksman, Charles Freeman
Amos Plummer, Evelyn Wheeler
Millicent Murray, June Brown
Ella Flynn, Gwendolyn Stearns
Clara Baum, Wilma Hall
Genevieve MacGoosh.

Ruby Schaffer, Mrs. Harold Lurvey

Rehearsals are under the direction of Donald F. Kellogg.

The proceeds of this performance will be given to the Bethel Boy Scouts. Tickets will be on sale at Bosserman's Tuesday, Jan. 9. Prices 35c and 20c.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN'S NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS

To endeavor to speak the truth in every instance, to give nobody expectations that are not likely to be answered, but aim at sincerity in every word and action; the most amiable excellence in a rational being.

To apply myself industriously to whatever business I take in hand, and not divert my mind from my business by any foolish project of growing suddenly rich; for industry and patience are the surest means of plenty.

I resolve to speak ill of no man whatever, not even in a matter of truth; but rather by some means excuse the fault I hear charged upon others, and upon proper occasions, speak all the good I know of every body.

BETHEL FARM BUREAUS ELECT

County Agent Blanchard Discusses Taxes at Annual Meeting

The annual joint meeting of the Farm Bureau was held in the Grange Hall Wednesday. The forenoon was devoted to a discussion on "taxes" by Richard F. Blanchard, County Agent. The information presented was the result of an exhaustive study of receipts and expenses of 46 Maine towns and the general tax problems as affecting state, counties, cities and towns.

Three things were recommended that towns might secure greater efficiency in conducting town business: first, a uniform system of accounting; second, a budget committee; and third, preparation of a tax map of the town. Mr. Blanchard also pointed out that efficiency in town affairs alone would not relieve the tax burden on real property, nor would any reasonable reduction in expenditures, but that some means of broadening the tax base is necessary in order to relieve the heavy burden on real estate.

Dinner was served to 28 at noon by the following committee: Mrs. Eva Hastings, Mrs. Pauline Mason and Mrs. Myrtle Lapham.

Afternoon meetings were in separate sessions. The annual reports were given and the ladies' division elected the following officers:

Chairman—Mrs. Myrtle Lapham
Asst. Chairman—Mrs. Adelaide Gibbs

Community Club Leader—Mrs. Adelaide Gibbs
Clothing Leader—Mrs. Grace Tyler

First Asst. Food Leader—Mrs. Ruth Stearns
Second Asst. Food Leader—Mrs. Mary Ladd

Home Management Leader—Mrs. Emily Chapman
Secretary—Miss Eugenia Haselton

Treasurer—Mrs. Ada Durell
Plans were then made for the local community meetings as follows:

Feb. 5—Home Organization
Mar. 14—Home Gardens
Apr. 18—Know Your Groceries
May 23—Restoring Old Furniture

June 13—Finish Up Restoring Furniture
July 18—Slip Making
Aug. 22—Flower Show

Sept. 19—Jams and Jellies
Oct. 11—Reconditioning the Wardrobe

Nov. 2—Canning Meat
Dec. 5—Pie Making and Christmas Box

Officers elected for the men's division are:

Chairman—Ernest Luxton
Crop Project Leader—Carey Stevens

Farm Management—John Anderson
Forestry—Elmer Stearns
Dairy—Evans Wilson
Poultry—Edmund Smith

THURSDAY, JANUARY 4, 1934.

Justice is the only worship. Love is the only priest. Ignorance is the only slavery. Happiness is the only good. The time to be happy is now. The place to be happy is here. The way to be happy is to make other people happy.—Robert G. Ingersoll.

"I DON'T PAY TAXES"
—OH, YES, YOU DO!

It is estimated that 70 per cent
of the national income is not subject to direct taxation—Income which comes from government
bonds, or is exempt from taxation
because its owners' total receipts are below the levels touched by the income tax law.

That provides a pretty sound reason for public laxness about taxation. A majority feel that it is no trouble of theirs—that it is a problem belonging strictly to that minority which must pay direct taxes.

We all pay taxes. If we earn a thousand a year or a hundred thousand—and the bulk of governmental income comes from those whose incomes are in the lower brackets.

We pay taxes when we go to a movie, buy food, turn on an electric light, take a spin in the car, go fishing, or do anything else. We pay them when we are asleep—
the maker of the bed, mattress and blankets paid taxes, which he passed on to those who bought his product. The more he paid, the more we pay to sleep!

Tax-freeedom whether for an individual or a business, is a beautiful illusion, and it will never be anything else. If your income falls within the 70 per cent mentioned, don't be pleased about it. You're paying your share of excessive taxation. And you'll continue to pay until you do something about it.

The writers and leaders try to tell us that whether or not we are happy is all in our minds. That if two persons are given the same things one will be happy and the other discontented. If this is true,
and it appears that it is, why wouldn't it be better to spend more time on learning how to be contented with what we have than we do to learn how to acquire more?

NOT GOLD ENOUGH TO PAY
Tale of Times in New York Times

Washington's discovery that there is not enough gold in the world to pay every bondholder in gold has proved a veritable inspiration. The same line of reasoning is being applied in ever so many different directions with most gratifying results.

Architects have decided that all doors must be abolished, since they would be too good anyhow if everybody tried to get out at the same time.

Restaurants and hotels in New York city have decided to go out of business, since there is no way of satisfying 1,500,000 customers if they should all demand braised

sweetbreads with mushroom sauce
for lunch.

Life insurance companies announce they will not pay any death
policies, since there isn't enough money anyhow in the country if all the policy-holders should die at once.

Fire insurance companies ditto,
if all the houses should burn up
at once.

Transferring $200,000,000,000 from creditors to debtors is a mere trifle; it will be all the same if a comet hits the earth.

It seems strange after reading of the plan to plow under part of the wheat and kill off a large portion of the hog crop to look back a few years ago and remember that we were lauding the man who was able to make two blades of grass grow
where one grew before.

find and would like to see in print,
write the Citizen. If we are unable to locate it possibly another reader
can furnish it for publication.

THE FACTS OF LIFE

Berton Braley in New York Times

The daylight moves from east to west.
And water runs downhill:
And two times two is four, by test,
And nought from nought is all:
A circle's round, the earth's a ball,
Twelve months make up a year;
A vacuum has no air at all—
And you're my dearest dear.

A square has equilateral sides:
And parallels don't meet:
The oceans rise and fall with tides,
And steel expands with heat,
The force of gravitation acts
According to the mass.
'These all are scientific facts'—
And you're my darling lass!

Planets and suns revolve in space:
The housefly has six legs:
Of eyes the earthworm has no
trace,
And chickens hatch from eggs.
And ice is cold, and fire is hot.
And two times one is two:
Oysters have shells and sheep have not—
And I'm in love with you.

WATCH YOURSELF GO BY

Strickland W. Gillman, in Success

Just stand aside and watch yourself go by:
Think of yourself as "he" instead
of "I."
Note, closely as in other men you
note,
The bag-kneed trousers and the seedy coat.
Pick flaws; find fault; forget the
man is you,
And strive to make your estimate
ring true.
Confront yourself and look you in the eye—
Just stand aside and watch yourself go by.

Interpret all your motives just as though
You looked on one whose aims you did not know.
Let undisguised contempt surge through you when You see you shrink. O commonest of men!
Despise your cowardice; condemn
what's there.
You note of falseness in you anywhere.
Defend not one defect that shames
your eye—
Just stand aside and watch yourself go by.

And then, with eyes unveiled to
what you loathe—
To sins that with sweet charity
you'd clothe—
Back to your self-walled tenement
you'll go
With tolerance for all who dwell
below.
The faults of others then will
dwarf and shrink,
Love's chain grow stronger by one
mighty link—
When you, with "he" as substitute
for "I,"
Have stood aside and watched yourself go by.

Civil Works Administrator Harry
Hopkins announced Friday that 2,495 hitherto idle women are employed on Civil Works and Civil Works Service projects in four New England states. Maine has 125 employed.

HERE AND THERE IN MAINE

In 1807 there were 895,884 sheep
in Maine as compared with 76,000 in 1933. The potato acreage has increased from 49,203 in 1900 to 196,000 acres in 1931.

Cecil Clay of Belfast, one of Maine's fastest shorthand reporters and official shorthand recorder of legislative proceedings in the House
since 1915, says that the special session was "the most hectic" he had experienced in his many years of service.

George William Auber, 73, who was the founder of the grange store
and who organized the patrons Mutual Fire Insurance Co., died at Augusta Dec. 25. He was a native of Houlton and it was there that he built the first Grange store,
which grew to be the largest of its kind in the world.

Bernard Craig, 18, of Calais, a section hand on the Canadian Pacific railroad was instantly killed
Saturday when a railroad snow plow struck the track car on which he was riding.

Conditions in Waterville were brighter Tuesday when the Lockwood Manufacturing Co., which had been closed for two weeks, resumed operations with 500 persons returning to work. About 400 men are employed on C. W. A. projects, and the Maine Central Railroad shops have called back a number of men who have been laid off for several months.

Thomas S. Hall, 50, of North Fryeburg, pleaded guilty to setting
fire to his buildings in North Fryeburg and Fryeburg Harbor. The fires occurred Sept. 30. Hall was bound over to the March term of court.

Elijah B. Morris, 90, one of Lew-iston's few remaining Civil War
veterans, died Tuesday afternoon.
He joined the First Delaware Cavalry in 1862.

Maine has completed a 120 mile section of the Great Appalachian Trail and expects soon to finish 50 miles more. With the completion of this stretch of trail, hikers will now be able to walk from Mount Oglethorpe, Georgia, to Mount Katahdin, a distance of 2,056 miles.
The trail is marked with Appalachian markers bearing the words,
"Maine to Georgia."

The three story furniture store of F. X. Cote & Co. of Biddeford was damaged by fire Sunday as the result of Frank Cote's attempt to thaw a frozen water pipe with a blow torch. The torch either flared or exploded igniting the basement walls. Unofficial estimate of the loss was from $8,000 to $10,000.
Frank Cote, Jr., was badly burned
but his injuries were described as not serious.

Kenneth O. Lawless, 31, of Turner was found dead in a truck near his home Saturday with a bullet lodged in his head. The death is believed to have been a suicide.

The family of Herbert Hussey, Biddeford, barely escaped Monday
when fire, believed to have started from an overheated stove destroyed
their two and one-half story farm house. Loss was placed at $10,000.

A Maine Fish and Game Exhibit, said by Commissioner Stoble to be the most beautiful the State has ever put on, will be displayed at the annual motor boat show in the Grand Central Palace, New York,
from January 19 to 27. The exhibit will consist of three scenes: fishing, camping, and beavers. Maine is the only State invited to exhibit
at the motor boat show.

Fish and Game Commissioner
Stoble has been notified by the Federal Government that it is ready to employ 100 transient unemployed
men to build salmon rearing pools
at Kookadjo, about 20 miles north of Greenville. This, when finished, will be the largest salmon rearing
station in Maine, handling 1,000,000
fish a year.

Fire, believed caused by the explosion of a lantern in a barn,
burned the buildings of Lee Elliott,
Half Hill, South Rumford, Monday morning. The loss was estimated at $4,500 with an insurance of $3,500.
Firemen were handicapped by lack of water.

Peter Mahoney, about 50, a woodsman, is in the Rumford Community Hospital, suffering from concussion of the brain, as a result of a falling tree which struck him on the head. The accident happened at East B Hill, Andover, Tuesday morning. Tuesday night
he had not regained consciousness
and efforts were being made to find his relatives.

GIRL SCOUTS

The fourth meeting of the Girl Scouts was held at the home of Mrs. S. S. Greenleaf on Dec. 13, with an attendance of eleven.

The meeting was opened by singing the new song which we are learning. The the patrols went to their corners where they reviewed the knots they had learned.

Before they started to play any games, Mrs. Twaddle went over the signs and how to use the flag with us, after which games were played.

The meeting was closed in the usual manner, and the Court of Honor stayed and discussed what we were to do at the next meeting.

Evelyn Seames visited with her aunt, Mrs. William Morgan, at Bryant Pond recently.

On account of the bad weather last week the mail carrier was unable to go for four days. Glenn Martin collected the out-going mail and carried it to Colby Ring at Rowe Hill where he met the mail carrier and brought the mail each day. Mr. Martin had to use snow shoes, as the roads were blocked with the drifted snow.

Gerald Robinson, who is night watchman at the mill at Locke Mills was obliged to board at the village last week as the road was impassable between here and Locke Mills.

Vera Dunham of Rowe Hill has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Lester Cole.

Ethel Libby, who is working at Bethel, and Lee Mills of Albany were Saturday night visitors at R. L. Martin's.

Elvia Cole and Leland Dunham of Locke Mills were callers at Elmer Cole's and Lester Cole's, recently.

SOUTH WOODSTOCK

Sunday, Dec. 31—The last day of the old year. The bells are tolling its departing knell. Gone forever all its cares and sorrows. Tomorrow we greet a glad New Year.

What a change during the week just passed. Everyone has been living in a dream, a delusion. The weather conditions so warm and pleasant it seemed we were in the land of never ending summer time. But look! Mother Nature does not believe in always giving flowery beds of ease for her children. At her command Borcas came from the Polar land. The snow fell to great depth. In the short time of 24 hours the thermometer registered thirty-six degrees below zero, and still growing colder. Like a just mother who warns her children to prepare for the blizzards as well as the sweets of life, has been this lesson.

Dec. 22 the school children made merry at their Christmas tree, Santa Claus paying them a visit.

Sunday, Dec. 24, Mrs. Evelyn Bartlett entertained her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coffin, and her brother and sisters, the special guest of honor being her soldier brother, Arnold Coffin, who returned to service in Panama Friday, Dec. 29. A lovely Christmas dinner and a tree bearing presents for all were greatly enjoyed.

Another Christmas dinner and a tree loaded with gifts was at the home of Alvah Hendrickson. Some of the children who had been rather sceptical in regard to Santa Claus in past seasons are now fully convinced that there is a real Santa who comes here to South Woodstock, as the same jolly old fellow was present at each of these gatherings.

Thursday evening, Dec. 28, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Barrett and Stanley and Roy Coffin of this place attended a house party at the residence of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coffin of North Woodstock, the occasion being a goodbye supper accompanied by many, many good wishes for their brother Arnold Coffin, who was to start the next morning on his return journey to Panama, where he, in a few months, will complete a three year enlistment.

Everybody in this place is feeling lots better. A. M. Andrews is out attending to business. Frank Andrews is so as to be up and around the house. The little Buck boy is gaining, but he has been a dreadfully sick little fellow. Miriam Hendrickson is better. All the other sick ones are on the gain and here is hoping that we banish all other sickness with the old year. That hope, Icy life with all their blessings may fall on all who are willing to take up the winding path leading to the full fulfillment of another Happy New Year.

WEST BETHEL

Friends of Rev. H. F. McGlasson will be pleased to know of the arrival of a little daughter in his home. Mr. McGlasson was a former pastor of the West Bethel Union Church.

Mrs. Linwood Lowell and two children are spending the remainder of the winter with her mother, Mrs. Florice McInnis, while Mr. Lowell is in the woods.

CHURCH ACTIVITIES
FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

L. A. Edwards, Pastor
9:30 Church School. Miss Ida Packard, Superintendent.

11:00 Morning Worship. It has been the custom of your pastor to preach a series of sermons during the opening weeks of the New Year. We plan, this year, to bring some meditations on the general theme, "Recipes For Life." The inspiration for this series came from reading the book, "What Men Live By," by Dr. Richard C. Cabot. The pastor commends this book to all thoughtful readers. It will be found to be highly rewarding reading. The topic for the sermon will be, "Work."

6:30 Comrades of the Way. Subject: "Important Events in 1933." Leader: Edgar Coolidge.

UPTON

Enoch Abbott, one of the oldest inhabitants of this town, passed away very suddenly last Saturday morning, after one or two days of illness. His funeral was held Monday, Jan. 1. His family have the sympathy of their many friends. Mr. Abbott has been town treasurer and tax collector for many years.

The young folks, who have been home for the holidays, returned this week to their various schools. Miss Myrtle Pratt to Gorham Normal School, Fred Judkins to University of Maine, an Albert and Lillian Judkins to Gould Academy. A. E. Flanders, the principal of the Upton Junior High School, is staying here during his two weeks vacation. He is tending fires at the school house every day to keep the water pipes from freezing.

C. B. Henderson has gone to Grafton as cookee at Hastings' camp.

ENOCH LEE ABBOTT

On Saturday morning, December 30th, occurred the death of Enoch L. Abbott, one of the oldest citizens, if not the oldest in Upton. Mr. Abbott having always lived in his native town and taken an important and prominent place in the affairs, the town suffers a distinct loss. At the advanced age of 87 years, he still served the town as its treasurer and tax collector and as a valuable counselor upon whose judgment one could rely. He was admired by all for his sterling qualities, sound advice and good judgment. He was quiet, courteous and kindly and all who knew him will join with his family in their bereavement.

Mr. Abbott was twice married. Two children were born of his first union and two by his second marriage, all of whom survive him as does his wife.

For a great many years he has been owner and manager of the "Abbott House" in Upton and has been a genial host and made many friends among the traveling public. He was beloved by the many people who summered at this hotel year after year and his fine qualities, neighborliness, integrity and the good cheer which he radiated made him a friend to all.

For something like a period of 40 years he has served the town as its efficient treasurer, a position which he held at the time of his death. He had also held office as tax collector over a period of years.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Cora Choate Abbott, two sons, Claud and Lee, both of Upton, also two daughters, Ada of Portsmouth, N. H., and Helen of New York City. "Weep not that his toll is over, weep not that his race is run. God grant we may rest as calmly, when our work like his is done. Till then we would yield with gladness, our treasures to Him to keep, And rejoice in the sweet assurance, He giveth His loved ones sleep."

GOULD TEAM TRAVELS TO NORWAY FRIDAY

Tough Game Expected With The Veteran Norway Team In First Game Away From Home

Gould Academy plays its first game away from home next Friday when they travel to Norway to take on Coach Jimmie Cole's veteran outfit. Norway has one of its finest teams this year, having lost only Jackson from last year's team.

Last week they swamped Bridgton 42-22, which gives some indication of their strength.

Norway is a tough aggregation to beat on any floor and on their own court they play their best brand of ball; so Gould can expect a hard game from the beginning whistle. The game is pretty much of a toss-up but Norway is favored to win due to the number of veteran players and the game being on their own floor.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Amos L. Bean of Haverhill, Mass., announce the engagement of their daughter, Alma Fern, to Glyndon A. Sawin of Milton, Mass., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sawin of Bethel.

Miss Bean was graduated from Haverhill High School in the class of 1929 and later attended Bryant and Stratton Commercial College in Boston. She is now employed by Phillips Andover Academy, Andover, Mass.

Mr. Sawin was graduated from Norway High School and Massachusetts College of Pharmacy. He is now engaged in business in Milton, Mass.

As yet no date for the wedding has been set.

"FUNNY PHINNIE"

Funny Phinnie will be at his funniest at Odeon Hall on Friday of this week. He is supported by a fine cast, our best local talent is represented in this presentation. A percentage of the profits is to go to the Boy Scouts.

Brynn Wheeler has accepted a position at Bar Harbor and his part in the play of Amos Plummer, the hen-pecked husband, will be taken by Donald F. Kellogg.

The specialties between the acts are of high quality. Miss Virginia Davis will dance. Miss Barbara Heath and Miss Wilma Hall have promised a vocal duet with lighting effects, "You're Going To Lose Your Girl." In response to special request Mrs. Lee Wentzel has consented to sing the beautiful song, "Forgotten." Mrs. Wentzel has a full, rich voice of memorable quality. The Blue Bird orchestra under the direction of Mr. Ralph Young will play.

This promises to be good, wholesome comedy, with plenty of laughs. Seats on sale at Bosserman's. Please come.

MOTHER-DAUGHTER BANQUET AT MAPLE INN

On Friday evening, Jan. 5, the Mothers Club held a mother and daughter banquet at Maple Inn.

This affair was planned by Mrs. S. S. Greenleaf and Mrs. Norman Hall, and much credit is due these ladies for the splendid evening's entertainment given the 40 mothers and daughters gathered there.

At each plate were found dainty hand made favors, programs, and song sheets from which the guests sang at intervals. After enjoying one of the Inn's most delicious banquets the following program was carried out with Mrs. Mildred Allen as toastmistress.

Toast to Mothers, Daughters, Toast by a Grandmother, Mrs. Maude Bean.

Poem, You Haven't a Baby Like Ours. Written by Mrs. Addie K. Mason when her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Brown, was a baby.

Mrs. Millie Wentzel Recitation, Ma and the Auto, Kathryn Davis.

Song, It's Just a Faded Flower, Arlene Greenleaf.

Piano solo, The Wayside Chapel, Barbara Hall.

A Mother Psalm, Mrs. R. C. Dalzell.

Mrs. Allen then introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Miss Clara Jackson of Rumford, who gave a splendid and inspiring talk on character building.

This was the first mother and daughter banquet ever held by the Mothers Club but everyone agrees that it should not be the last.

GIRLS AND "B" SQUAD OPEN THEIR SEASON SATURDAY

Saturday night in the Gymnasium the Girls' Varsity and Boys' "B" Squad open their schedules with South Paris.

In the first game which starts at seven o'clock, the Gould girls will play the South Paris High School girls. This should be of unusual interest as this is the first time for several years that these two teams have met. Both teams have near veteran outfits and with the change in the rules should prove an exceptionally fast game.

At eight o'clock the "B" Squad will play the South Paris Junior High. In this game fans will have an opportunity to see a good many of the future Gould stars in action. Coach Myers is planning to use as many of the Freshman candidates as possible.

Admission to both games will be only fifteen cents and holders of season tickets will be admitted on their ticket.

THE NEW ACADEMY BUILDING

The plastering is nearly finished and it is expected that the work of putting on finish will begin in a few days. The marble setters are at work in the lobby.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE PARTY

Mrs. E. P. Brown was tendered a surprise party at her home Friday night in honor of her birthday. The affair was planned by her daughters, Mrs. Beatrice Grover and Miss Martha Brown. Mrs. Brown was the recipient of many nice gifts including money and two birthday cakes.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Albert Grover, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Moore, Mrs. Elsie Robertson, Mrs. Will Garey, Mrs. Bernice Heath, Mrs. Edna York, Mrs. Ruth Poole, Mrs. Helen Berry, Mrs. Maude Bean, Miss Edna Page, Miss Martha Brown, Mrs. H. S. Jodrey, Mrs. Susan Laflue, E. P. Brown, Ray York, John Berry, Garey York, and the guest of honor.

HERE AND THERE IN MAINE

The largest official map of Maine that a national map company has been required to make was hung in Commissioner Stobie's office awaiting the addition of statistical information before being shipped to New York to be part of the Maine fish and game exhibit there. It is 10 feet tall and seven feet wide.

A total of 110.7 miles of road was under construction in Maine on Dec. 1. There was at that time a balance of $657,762.78 of the Public Works funds for the use of all road projects in Maine.

A C. W. A. project, the building of a municipal airport at Brunswick, was started Tuesday. The project will employ 26 men. The town is to receive 50 per cent of the net profits derived from the airport when completed.

Twenty-two persons were driven to the streets Saturday when fire damaged buildings on Casco Street, Portland, causing damage estimated at several thousand dollars.

Coach James S. Morse of Rumford dropped dead Saturday afternoon at Hebron Academy where his Mexico High basketball team was holding a practice session. Mr. Morse was 27 years of age, athletic coach and teacher of mathematics at Mexico High.

Street lighting is more costly in Maine than in the country as a whole. Only six States in the country pay a higher rate per kilowatt hour for municipal street lighting than Maine.

Edward E. Hastings of Fryeburg, widely known attorney, has retired from the law firm of Hastings and Son. He has practiced law in Oxford County 54 years.

Fire at Waterville Friday morning caused damage estimated at $20,000 to a three story brick block at Silver and Main Streets.

Captain Albert W. Stevens of the Army Air Corps has been awarded the $1,000 Franklin L. Burr prize by the National Geographic Society for his accomplishments in the technical field of aerial photography. Stevens flew to an altitude of 26,000 feet during the eclipse of the sun Aug. 31, 1932, obtaining the first aerial photographs showing the moon's shadow on the earth. Captain Stevens is a native of Belfast, Maine.

Kidnapping warnings have been received by George D. Varney of Berwick, County Attorney of York County. The threats were against his wife and two children and demanded payment of $5,000.

Signs of Worms are: Constipation, deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, offensive breath, hard and full stomach with pains, pale face, eyes heavy, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, etc.

Mrs. E. W. Stephan, 31 Kennerly Road, Dorchester, Mass., wrote: "My little girl's freedom from children's diseases, colds, constipation, etc., I attribute in a large measure to the use of Dr. True's Elixir."

Dr. True's Elixir Laxative Worm Expeller

A pure herb medicine, not a harsh stimulant; natural relief from constipation.

Jack Matherson threw his hat in the ring.

He's hauling pulp by the cord, and can't even hold up long enough to have his horses shod.

But that is not the worst he did. What it is, I hate to say.

But he ruined that boy called Jordrey when he hired him by the day.

But the thing that grieves my heart the most was when Red built his brand new dray.

Threw his brush and curry comb, and drove on down the way.

For he'll never be the same again. Since he's joined that jobbing crew.

There's a darn good crowd in the teamsters' shack at Hastings No. 1.

They tell the best and biggest lies at night when their work is done.

They tell of the loads one team has hauled.

And the work one man should do, but I don't believe one-tenth I hear.

And neither, I think, would you.

But some of the men have gone to the dogs.

I'm going to tell you why; it grieves me much to tell the tale, but I'm going to make a try.

It's nothing on earth but jobbing. That's drove these men to the dogs.

All you can hear them talking now, "I want more spruce, more logs!"

They lead the crew in the morning and run all the way to work.

And the ones that loafed when they worked by day.

Are never known to shirk.

There's Chris and Willy for instance, they're jobbing for Hastings today.

They don't even wait for their breakfast.

And holler, "We'll make her pay!"

WITH THE POETS

NEW YEAR'S EVE

By Clara Brown Martin

The year is done. For just a breathing space,
We pause before the vast unmarked expanse.
Of what is yet to come. We may not face
About, but onward force our ardent glance,
And upward lift our eyes in prayer and praise.

And whatsoever the finished year has brought
Of sorrow or of pain, let us forget
And cast it from us, that there shall be naught
Upon this evening, that shall cause regret,
Or throw a shadow on our future days.

But whatsoever the dear Lord hath allowed Within the year that's gone, to make us glad—
Each pleasing, helpful, gracious thing that's bowed
Our head in thanks—all joys we've had—
May these inspire and cheer us on our ways.

You'll never have time to eat your meals,
Or even to sleep at night.
Should a man call you a — of a —
You wouldn't have time to fight.

Second Team Loses, 35-29—Gould Varsity Shows Scoring Punch

Gould Academy swamped South Paris to the tune of 52-30 here last Friday with a sparkling display of team work and fine passing. The team showed its best brand of basketball thus far this season and proved conclusively that they will be tough opposition for most of the opponents remaining on the schedule. In Browne, Stanley and Allen, Coach Anderson has plenty of scoring punch as was witnessed in last week's encounter. Allen and Stanley, who have done little scoring to date, burst forth to put a real scoring spree, marking 37 points between them.

"Bob" Browne, playing his first game for the varsity, did a nice job of ball handling, making a number of nice passes to men breaking for the basket, as well as scoring two goals. Martinson, playing as back guard for the first time, made many interceptions and was instrumental in keeping the visitors to long shots.

The visitors proved a great deal stronger offensively, as they rang up 30 points to their credit, but were unable to stop the Blue and Gold attack at any time.

In the preliminary game the local understudies took a 15-3 lead in the first period but before the final period was over found themselves in the short end of the game. Terms with 14 points and Bartlett with 10 starred for their respective teams.

Mrs. Emogene Lovejoy, who has spent several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Florence Westleigh, in Norway, has returned home with her son Fred Lovejoy and family.

Mrs. Clarence Bennett entertained three tables of bridge Wednesday evening. Delicious refreshments of salad, hot rolls, cake, coffee, nuts and candy were served by the hostess. Decorations were in keeping with the New Year. The highest score went to Mrs. Clara Abbott, the lowest to Mrs. Ella Hutchinson. An enjoyable evening was had by all present. Those present were: Mrs. Olive Head, Mrs. Clara Abbott, Mrs. Libbie Kane, Mrs. Bertha Mason, Mrs. Ella Hutchinson, Mrs. Eva Burris, Mrs. Mildred Lowell, Mrs. Lena Westleigh, Mrs. Ella Hale, Mrs. Gladys Dean, and the hostess, Mrs. Violet Bennett.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 11, 1934

Frankness and tolerance may be the bases on which enduring friendships should be built but who of us can stand candor? Or who of us would have many friends if we were absolutely truthful.

Although the management of the Citizen labored with the best of intentions last week, it appears that two misleading statements appeared on our front page. While it is now impossible to atone in full
for these errors, the editor offers herewith his excuse or explanation:

The final paragraph of the story of the Footlight Club comedy, "Funny Phinnie," stated that the proceeds would be given to the Bethel Boy Scouts. We understand they will receive a percentage of the proceeds as announced in an account of the Club's purposes in the Citizen of November 9.

In the local items was an item about a meat pie supper. This was handed to us with a request for position on page one. Price was not mentioned and naturally we assumed it was free, inasmuch as it was plainly stated that everybody was welcome. Now a poster tells us that there was a charge for the feast.

We deeply regret that these declaring announcements appeared in print, and offer our apologies to any who were misled or suffered inconvenience through our oversight.

The fellow who let the nice weather slip by before getting things in shape for the winter has a lot of criticism to offer about the way the government is run.

Every town has at least one sore
head. Nothing ever suits him. Nothing is ever done right. He knows how the city should be run as well as the state and government. He knows why the merchant and the farmer are not making any money.
He knows the banks are all crooked
and the insurance companies are going broke. He knows that you can't trust anyone these days and that the majority of people are inclined to be crooked. He knows everything except how to make a living for himself.

SAVE FARM BUILDINGS

As we have said before, the rural districts are entitled to efficient fire protection. A few years ago this would have been an unreasonable stand, but today, with moderately priced fire-fighting equipment,
roads open the year around, and good telephone service in nearly every neighborhood, it is different.
A large investment is not called for. Many farm buildings are near water, and in other places ponds
can be easily made and a small pumper can work wonders if called promptly.

In Christmas Day a set of buildings was saved at Norway Center
with comparatively small damage
by fire, with the timely aid of a pumper and a dam recently constructed as a C. W. A. project.

GOULD ACADEMY
NOTES

Stuart Lane, Gould '33, is a regular guard on the freshman basketball team at the University of Maine. This year's frosh schedule is one of the most difficult ever attempted by that class in the university.

Miss Leavengood, who has been detained at her home in Ohio because of illness, has returned to her duties at Gould.

Mr. Bailey of the Science Department addressed the Monday night
meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association which was held in the grammar school building. His subject was on photography.

The last meeting of the Oxford
County Schoolmasters' Association was held at Maple Inn, Wednesday evening, Jan. 10th, at 6:30. Following a supper, the group discussed the subject, "One Thing I Have Done to Improve My School."

Miss Dorothy Hanscom, Athletic Director for girls, has arranged the following schedule for the girls'
varsity basketball team:

Jan. 13—South Paris at Bethel.
Jan. 26—South Paris at S. Paris.
Feb. 9—Andover at Bethel.
Feb. 16—Alumnae.

The varsity squad consists of:
Shirley Cole, Captain; Marjorie
Berry; Margaret Hamlin; Ruby Hodsdon; Mary Tibbetts; Helen Philbrook. The second squad consists of: Elva Linnell, Betty Raynes, Betty Soule, Sylvia Merrill,
Marguerite Hall, Norma Rolfe,
Margaret Fraser, Rosalind Rowe,
Elizabeth Bean.

Class games in girls' basketball,
under the direction of Miss Hanscom, will start a week from this Thursday. Members of the respective teams are: Seniors; Shirley Cole, Marguerite Hall, Margaret Fraser, Norma Rolfe, Ruby Hod-
sdon, Mary Tibbetts, Elva Linnell.
Juniors, Sylvia Merrill, Captain,
Margaret Hamlin, Elizabeth Bean,
Helen Philbrook, Betty Soule, Jane
Linston. Sophomores; M. Berry,
Captain, B. Hunt, R. Rowe, B.
Raynes, B. Weagle, M. Kimball.
Freshmen; B. Moore, Captain, C.
Philbrook, R. Weagle, Margaret
Tibbetts, R. Hutchins, E. Vail.

Thick Fog Costs London
$5,000,000 Each Day

London.—It costs London $5,000,- 000 every day a thick fog descends
on the city.

This is the estimate the London
Chamber of Commerce places on the losses involved by damage to merchandise, delays in traffic, suspension of business, cost of artificial lighting and illness.

This financial loss is accompanied by a rise in the death rate of one sixth.

And it appears that the city may continue to sustain the loss for many years to come. For although scientists know the cause of the fogs
they have so far been unable to find a workable method for abolishing them.

LEST WE FORGET

In these days of business recovery when many of us who have known the pinch of poverty are again able to bring home the welcome pay envelope, let us not forget the man who befriended us
when we most needed friendship—
the merchant who extended us credit when he knew we just didn't have the money to pay.

It is easy to avoid the man to whom we owe money, but it is not right to do so. If we have any money to spend, any goods to buy,
he is the man to whom we should go.

Our local merchant, especially,
undoubtedly extending credit as a friendly act. He will be reasonable in arranging payment. Let us show our gratitude, walk in and shake hands, and give him the benefit of our present business.

—Record, Brunswick, Me.

BEGIN TRAINING FOR BEAUTY

The secret of this glorified beauty
business is out! And it's simplicity itself. They owe it all to canned pineapple.

At least, that's what one gathers
from the girls who make up the eye
attraction of the musical comedy,
"Take a Chance." As the show began its long road tour with the attendant wrinkle making worries of rushing from theater to train and sketchy rest in sleeping cars, these girls developed a "beauty diet" to maintain the radiant vitality of health which the footlights demand.
And topping the list of "beauty
aids" is Hawaii's golden pineapple!

"We went into a huddle with a dietician," Shirley Manson—the lit-

in the front row—explained. "And this expert said inadequate diets deny many women the vitality they must have to be really beautiful.
She said that radiant health is the foundation of real beauty and daily eating of two slices of canned pineapple or a cup of the crushed or tidbits as a source of these Vitamin things—A, B and C—and five essential minerals will help. Wasn't it a break that she recommended something we all like?"

And so the tired business man
from Maine to California will get his beauty glorified as ever—even if it is all done with the aid of canned pineapple.

Middle Intervale, Bethel

Augustus Carter and Mr. Philbrook were in Auburn Monday.

test of Woodstock High School will be held January 19, at 8 p. m., at the Grange Hall. The following students will speak: Evelyn Knights, Alice Andrews, Muriel
Lowe, Iva Ring, Ellen Burns,
Faulkner Chase, Gordon Chase,
Bernard Cushman, Robert Cummings, Harland Abbott.

Friday, Jan. 5, the Senior Class
held a dance and social at the Grange Hall.

Hockey has been progressing as fast as possible among the boys at the High School. Weather conditions have not been very favorable
so far.

The classes at Woodstock High
have adopted the question for debate this year. It is, Resolved:
that the State of Maine should adopt a sales tax for State revenue.
The freshmen and sophomore
classes will debate the question,
the freshmen upholding the affirmative and the sophomores the negative. The juniors and seniors will uphold the affirmative and negative respectively. The winners from each group will then meet to decide the winning team for the school.

BRYANT POND

Franklin Grange held its installation last Saturday. The officers were installed in a very effec-

At the Grange Hall next Sat-
day night there will be a free dance and social and a shower for and Mrs. Harold Tyler who has everything in the fire which but-ed his garage. It is to be a community affair, but sponsored by Grange.

Hazen Emery has returned home
from a visit with his parents Portland.

The Jolly Workers 4-H Club met
at the home of their leader, Mrs.
Addie Mann. Eleven members and one visitor were present. During the business meeting the president appointed a committee to prepare subjects for the roll call for the rest of the year. The roll call was answered by New Year's resolutions. The program of work for the following year was accepted.

Members made and baked cookies
which were served after the meeting. The next meeting will be held at the leader's home, with music
and quick breads as subject matter, and a judging contest will be held. The next meeting will be Jan. 20.

The 4-H Junior Sewing Club will hold an all day meeting at the home of the leader, Mrs. Addie Mann, on Jan. 22. They will carry a picnic dinner.

SOUTH WOODSTOCK

Sunday, Jan. 7.—The last day of Christmas ended at midnight and winter is well on its way. For several days we are again enjoying a warm spell.

Andrew Rose has been quite sick during the past week but is some better at this writing.

Gerald Davis is sawing up the year's supply of wood for J. W. Andrews & Sons.

Walden Rider and Walter Littlehale are sawing ice on Andrews' mill pond.

Benson, Davis, and Hendrickson are storing their ice supply which is of No. 1 quality, clear blue all through, having proper thickness requirements.

Gayden Davis was in Lewiston and Auburn recently on a business trip.

Mrs. Alura Andrews and Mrs. Angle Robbins were recent afternoon guests of Mrs. Velma Davis.

Arnold Coffin, after reaching New York was allowed a three days stay. Mr. Coffin improved the opportunity given and returned to Maine for an overnight stay with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coffin, and family.

The C. W. A. work in town is going on nicely. Some little alterations sometimes arise—as is usual among many working together.

Two of the men recently discharged themselves but quickly the gap was filled by others from a long waiting list of those anxious for a chance to work. Owners of trucks refuse to allow other than members of their own families or relatives to drive. In this case many families having no need of help are receiving the benefits of pay for their truck, and also for members of their families not in the dependent class.

The women employed in C. W. A. work are doing cleaning in the public library under the efficient management of Mrs. Ada Swan of Bryant Pond. This work is looked upon with approval by everyone as our Public Library was a cherished gift to our town by a man who through frugality and careful saving left this legacy for all to enjoy.

The Willing workers met at the home of Mrs. Velma Davis Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 3. A good number were in attendance to enjoy the unusual entertainment Mrs. Davis provided. A large basket closely covered contained the surprise. After some jokes and merriment all dipped in and soon a bushel of nice beans were quickly picked over ready for use when needed. Music was enjoyed and refreshments of coffee and sandwiches were served. Mrs. Davis thanked her guests for their good help and all plan to come to the next bean pickover.

Throws Down Coat;

Wren Builds a Nest

Garden, Mich.—Virgil Winter threw his coat down on the ground and left it there while he was working at some fencing on the Alex Mellon farm just outside the village limits the other day. When he went to get it again a few hours later he found that the garment had already been appropriated. A wren had started to build its nest in one of the pockets. Winter did not discover what had been going on until he pulled out a quantity of nesting material in lieu of some articles he had expected to find in the pocket. Most of the latter were picked up later from the ground nearby.

NORTH LOVELL

Endora and Sargent Coleman, Jr., have been visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McKee.

Lillian McKee spent the week end with her cousins, Alice and Clara Curtis, and attended the dance at North Waterford.

CHAPTER XI

HER elder sisters had finally given up open opposition to Smiff's plan of burying herself in Lovelylea. Among themselves they had agreed that her purchase of the plantation was unimportant, since it she made the sort of marriage they meant she should, she would be in a position to indulge her sentiment for the old home of her family and have other "more suitable" establishments elsewhere as well.

As usual, Smiff understood them perfectly; but it suited her to be freed from nagging arguments while she brought her plans to completion. Doctor Blanton's ready acquiescence in her arrangements came as a complete surprise, however; until, of a sudden, she suspected that he was about to propose another occupation for her. In a panic, she hurried her preparation and left for the South without the formality of good-bys. Once she was settled she would write to everybody. Meanwhile she was annoyed that she heard nothing from Bill-Lee. She did not know exactly when Stone's tenancy terminated, but had vague plans that might enable her to assume possession of her property almost at once. But what could Bill-Lee be doing to prevent his acknowledgment of her letter?

So far, she had told Stone nothing, although her plans were more or less elaborate, including first his reconciliation with his neighbors and next, finding him a desirable plantation near enough to Lovelylea to permit of his continued use of the track and other improvements he had installed on its acres. Before she saw him, she proposed to clear up the entire situation as regards the Hoxton Hunt club. With this in mind, she went directly to Colthorpe, the home of her cousin, Christopher Culpeper. Both he and his wife, were delighted that Smiff had elected to stay with them out of the large number of relations she had to choose from.

"Who was it told us Smiff was not in the least good-looking?" Cousin Kit asked his wife as they stood side by side at a window and watched her shepherding along the drive toward the house their son Jeff's twins, fugitives with their grandparents from whooping-cough among their brothers and sisters.

beats me. In my day she'd not have been single this long."

Smiff had soon decided she was sufficiently established in the favor of her family to advance the cause she had at heart. She came in and sank into a chair, laughing.

"Madame and sir," she said with a final chuckle, "your grandchildren are adorable but exhausting. I have returned them to Mammy undamaged, although it was touch and go."

"Have you looked through the cards of the people who called yesterday while we were at your Aunt Fanny Madison's?" Cousin Mab asked.

Smiff accepted this as her chance. "Yes," she said, "and that reminds me; Don't you think it strange that Stone Nesbitt hasn't called? After all, he is occupying Lovelylea and I want to see the old place again."

She had looked for an explosion from Cousin Kit. None came.

"Gorry, Smiff," he muttered a trifle shamefacedly, "I'm mighty sorry to disappoint you-all. I'm afraid that can't be managed. You see, Mr. Nesbitt long ago made up his mind that he would have nothing to do with any of us."

"Now what do you mean by that?" Smiff demanded, instantly on the alert at this placing of the blame on Stone's shoulders.

"Well," Cousin Mab cut in briskly, "it boils down to this: The young man came here from God knows where, and brought a pack of hounds—"

"So the members of the Hoxton Hunt got sore," Cousin Kit interrupted, "and ever since then their wives and daughters have been throwing it up to them that they made a mess of a very simple business."

"And so you did," Cousin Mab declared without animus. "I grant you it was a case calling for a little tact, a thing of which men know only the name. Any lad of spirit would have acted exactly as young Nesbitt did."

"Well, we sent him an invitation to join the Hunt, didn't we? And the young cub returned it unopened," Cousin Kit growled defensively.

"What?" exclaimed Smiff sharply. "You invited Stone to join the Hunt?"

Kit Culpeper might not have noticed this slip, but Cousin Mab raised her delicate eyebrows and pounced on it at once.

"Stone?" she repeated with an interrogative inflection. "You know Mr. Nesbitt, honey?"

"Yes," Smiff acknowledged; "I know him. He is my cousin. His grand-mother—great-grandmother, I mean—was Lorraine Lovely."

"Well, I'll be d—d!" Cousin Kit exploded.

"Now," said Smiff, "let me tell you his side of the affair and perhaps it will all be clearer."

She told the story well and they listened with at least a partial understanding of Stone's loneliness and bitterness.

"And now what can we do about it?" Cousin Kit inquired, looking from one to the other of his companions.

Smiff had taken thought to herself and had decided that it would be better if she did not appear too openly in the matter.

"The affair needs careful consideration," she confessed. "Give us time and 'Cousin Mab and I will find a way out of the tangle."

"Certainly we will," Cousin Mab nodded, her head already full of matchmaking schemes. Wasn't Stone Nesbitt reputed to be very wealthy? Wasn't he a suitable age? Cousin Kit rambled out and Smiff at once proceeded to dispel Cousin Mab's rosy dream.

"You see," she confided to her gravely, "I'm not ready yet for anyone else to know it, not even Cousin Kit, who I don't believe could keep a secret to save his life: I've bought Lovelylea from Bill-Lee, and I'm beginning to be afraid Stone is going to feel terribly about it, especially as I've never told him that I had made the arrangements with Bill-Lee."

This, Cousin Mab was forced to acknowledge to herself, did not look like a love affair.

She did her best to keep her face from falling, but Smiff noticed the change in her expression.

"Don't you approve of me as a neighbor?" Cousin Mab at once recaptured her pole.

"My dear, I'm delighted," she said, "I was only wondering if you knew how the activities of the plantation have expanded under Mr. Nesbitt. It seems a tremendous undertaking for a young woman."

Smiff chuckled joyously at the antipathy.

"That's why it will be such fun to tackle it," she explained. "I love to pull off something successfully where everyone expects me to fail." She was thinking of the case of Madame Salton, Incorporated.

"Now about Mr. Nesbitt?" Cousin Mab began.

"What do you think of the twins?" Smiff inquired.

"The twins?" Their grandmother was bewildered.

"As messengers, I mean. Peace-makers in fact. Listen, what do you say to this?" And Smiff unfolded her plan which, in due course, the twins improved on after a pattern of their own.

That afternoon, Stone, led by excited barks from Beauchaire and confirmatory mutterings from Voltaire, went through the hall to the front door to ascertain the cause of the warning. Beauchaire had disappeared down the steps with a yelp of joy, and he and Voltaire followed, to the edge of the platform. Below him, flat on their backs on one of the broad steps, lay two small figures, gazing unwinkingly upward.

"Hello," said Stone, "who are you and where did you drop from?"

At his words both the children sat up with a unanimity of action that was like a mechanical toy.

"You've got a mighty nice dog," the young gentleman remarked casually. "I s'pose you wouldn't sell him or swap him?"

His sister frowned at him darkly.

"That's not the way to begin," she said in a surprisingly deep and low-pitched voice.

"Suppose you begin by telling me your names?" Stone suggested, at a loss to explain such arrivals on his doorstep.

"Haven't you a butler?" the girl demanded, her voice suddenly high and childish. "We've come to call on you."

She was taking the stand that, as their call had not been officially begun, they had not been introduced; and Stone entered into the game with becoming gravity, going inside the house without further words and back to his study to await their ring at the bell and his summons by the butler. This was a visit of ceremony and must be treated as such.

"The front door bell will ring in a moment or two, baby," he said to his butler. "There are two youngsters there. Treat them as if they were entirely grown up, understand? Take their cards, show them into the parlor. There they are now. Bring the cards to me, I'm anxious to know who they are."

The butler returned, consumed with laughter.

"You'll learn little from their cards, sir," he said, holding out a salver on which reposed two im- posing looking pasteboards. "I can tell you who the little devils are."

"Let them tell me in their own way," Stone picked the cards up. One was engraved.

MRS. RUTHERFORD MADISON

MADISON

THE MISSES MADISON

Middleburgh, Virginia.

The other

MRS. CONNISTON COULTER

Tar Hill Plantation

And once again Stone asked him- self if he was being made the butt of a joke?

However he went to greet his visitors, their cards in his hand.

"I'm delighted to see you," he said.

"Did you like our tickets?" the boy asked.

"We picked the very nicest biggest ones in the card basket," the girl interposed, "Toddy's a stupid little boy. They aren't tickets. Tickets are what you have when the circus comes. These are cards—for visits, you know. You have to have 'em, when you make real visits. We never did before."

"What am I to call you?" Stone asked, glancing the pasteboards with a frown. "The names on these are so formal. Who sent you here?"

"Gran," said Patsy, "and she gave me a message. And I've forgotten it."

"So have I," said her brother.

Suddenly his sister began to paw all over his inadequate attire.

"There's a letter," she declared. "What did you do with it, Todhunter Culpeper?"

"I had it when we laid down on the steps to think because we were so crunched," Toddy wrinkled his brow.

"I know," they cried together.

"the puppy has it. He took it to give his mother."

Retrieved from the steps where Beauchaire had dropped it on Stone's appearance, the note was reclaimed.

It proved to be a few lines from Mrs. Culpeper:

"Dear Mr. Nesbitt: Will you take a dish of tea with me tomorrow afternoon? I shall be all alone save for the twins."

"Cordially yours,

"Mabel Todhunter Culpeper."

"Who is Mabel Culpeper?" he asked the two.

"My sister," Patsy told him. "She's a horrid little girl. She's got whooping-cough."

Stone essayed another tack.

"Who wrote this note?"

"Let me see it, old man," Toddy suggested, holding it upside down and examining it with interest, as if he had never laid eyes on it before. "From that blob," he put a finger on the seal. "I'd say Gran—only she usually puts a stamp on when she writes to my mother."

The angular handwriting also pointed to old Mrs. Culpeper.

Stone wrote her a short note of acceptance, but was disinclined to trust it to the twins' tender mercies.

"How did you come here?" he asked.

"We left our carriage at the gate. We needed fresh air," Patsy assented primly. So Stone walked with them and handed his note to the old colored coachman.

Stone was amazed and somewhat distrustful on receipt of Mrs. Culpeper's message, yet to his mind he had no alternative. The more he dwelt on the thought the more distasteful it became to him but go he must.

He need have had no apprehension of stiffness or social strain. Mabel Culpeper was born a Todhunter of Charles-on, and the graceful management of men was part of her heritage. She met him as if he were an old friend, and shortly they felt entirely at home together.

Ted was brought and with it came the twins, hand in hand, on their best behavior.

"This is a party," Patsy announced. "I always know it is a party when I see those little black cakes."

"Certainly it's a party," her grandmother agreed. "It's your Cousin Stone's coming out party."

Stone started and made no attempt to correct it, looking to her for an explanation.

"That is the only complaint I have to make of you, Stone," she said easily. "Down here blood is still thicker than water. You must have known that Lorraine Lovely and my mother's mother were cousins."

"But—but I didn't," Stone stammered bewildered. "I had no idea of such a thing."

"Then I forgive you," Mrs. Culpeper was leniently itself as she fired her next shot. "Of course you will have to make peace with your Cousin Kit when you see him. He had set his heart on your joining the Hoxton Hunt when they invited you—"

"Invited me?" Stone cried. "That's the very first I ever heard of it."

"Well, dear boy," Mabel Culpeper had a disarming smile, "you will own that letters can't be expected to talk, and if you send them back unopened—" She looked at him and saw that it was unnecessary to say more.

"So that was a letter I returned. What a little fool I must have seemed."

"Not a fool only a spirited boy."

I assure you that I was proud to claim you when recently I learned that you were my cousin."

"My dear," Mrs. Culpeper told Smiff later, "I really liked our new cousin. If I were younger, I would dispute his possession with that fat Miss Mercedes, who has given every one in the neighborhood to understand that she has him in her pocket."

Smiff replied, "Of course Miss Mercedes means to marry him and, frankly, I think he'd be happier married. He badly needs companionship."

"Not the companionship of that county fair exhibit," Cousin Mab stated with a firmness that defied contradiction. "She is shrewd, but totally uninteresting, and I suspect comes of vulgar people of the Mid-West. There's a burr in her speech that can't otherwise be accounted for. It is the most persistent of our provincial accents, and although she seems to fancy so, calling you 'honey' every other minute doesn't make a southerner, does it, honey? Frankly, I don't like the young woman, although she gives the most delicious dinners in the state."

"So I've heard. . . . Well, sooner or later she'll be back among us, ten years younger and many times more beautiful. Then we'll see if Stone can resist her."

"Do you approve of the match?" Cousin Mab was watching her keenly, and Smiff bent for a light for her cigarette.

"I do and I don't," she owned with entire candor, waving away with one hand the smoke that partly veiled her face. "I confess I'm not crazy about Miss Mercedes, but I do think it's hard lines to be denied a love affair simply because one's fat. In spite of that, when I once fancied for a few moments that they were actually engaged, I can't say that I was pleased, even while I saw plainly what a nice solution it would be of all my worries."

"And what are your worries?" Cousin Mab inquired, lifting quizzical eyebrows.

"They're principally connected with Stone at present. I ought to have told him long ago that I had planned all my life to buy Lovelylea. Now, it is going to look as if I had hurried to do it behind his back. And Stone and I have been friends. I'd hate to lose that friendship almost as much as I'd hate to lose Lovelylea. Not quite, I suppose; because if the scales tipped that way, I could say: 'Here it is, I've bought it; but if you love it too much to lose it, I'll give it up to you.' . . . I'm not that unscrupulous, Cousin Mab. I'd love him to have the use of it. I'd be glad to let him use the track and the new stables and the other improvements he has built. But the old place is mine. Our dead lie there. Without disloyalty to them, how can I give it up?"

The older woman made no answer when Smiff paused and looked at her appealingly. She knew right well the solution she would like to recommend, but it was too soon for so risky a venture. Smiff might take alarm and run away North, which was the last thing she wanted. So she preserved a sympathetic silence and Smiff went on:

"You can see it would be a wonderful solution for me if he married Mercedes. He would live with in easy reach and we could at least share the track and training quarters. I don't think I'd break the news to him until Macey is back from her cure and I'm sure he knows his own mind. Then, if he just won't have her, I'll help him look about for another place. I might even pretend it was for me. What would you like of that?"

"My dear, don't ask my advice. I'm an utterly imprudent woman myself. Your Cousin Kit will tell you that I only tell the truth when I've made up my mind nothing else will work as well. That's as it may be, but it's what he always says. When do you propose to let Stone know that you are here?"

"I'd like it awfully if he could be taken to the heart of the Hoxton Hunt and the countryside in general without fancying I had anything to do with it," Smiff said wistfully. "It would mean a lot for—well—for his morale. I'll call it for lack of a better word, I must visit Great-Aunt Anabel Trevor and the Culpeper aunts and uncles some time. Suppose I start the round at once? Can you get the preliminaries over in two weeks, say? Then I'll come back as if it was my first appearance and stay with you. If you'll have me, until Susan Phelps comes down to Lovelylea to a house party, there. The Phelps are really my dearest friends up North. You'll like them, Cousin Mab. Ted and I will just suit you?"

"Perfectly, and I don't know why it shouldn't work. Since nobody knows you know Stone except Kit and me, you'll probably not be mentioned if I warn Kit." Which she proceeded to do with such emphatics that for once he held his usually unruly tongue.

Smiff left on her series of visits and peace descended upon the thorpe.

Blindness to Taste and Small Cordon Affliction

While science knows something about taste and smell, it has been able to make little progress in improving or adding these organs. In fact, science is about in the same state that it was in the Middle Ages as far as this field is concerned. Telephones allow one to see stars invisible to the unaided eye; scales weigh masses too large to lift or too minute to feel; microscopes bring into range the world of creatures too small to be seen; amplifiers magnify sounds inaudible to human ears, and amplifiers measure electric currents too feeble to shock the most sensitive. But tongues and noses must struggle along without mechanical assistance. "Blindness" to taste or smell is relatively common. There are chemical compounds that some people declare to be disagreeably bitter and others cannot taste at all. Similarly, the lemon verbena smells to some and not to others. So science is still seeking ways to aid tongue and nose. Perhaps "microscopes" and odor amplifiers may be developed; and here is an opportunity for inventors.

Turks Love Their Pigeons

The love the Turks show for pigeons is remarkable. These birds are encouraged to nest in the nooks and crannies of many beautiful mosques in Istanbul and other places, regardless of the amount of damage they do, which is said to be considerable. Special holes are left for the pigeons in many walls. Each year during the Bayram holiday Mosquesgoers and others make it a point to provide the pigeons with a great feast, especially in front of the courtyards of the Eyoub and Bayazid mosques. During this time old women stationed in the courtyards of the mosques sell millet for about a penny a cupful, which is a very high price for many of the poor people who buy it to feed to the much admired birds.

Costa Rica

Costa Rica is divided into three rather well-defined districts. The Pacific coast is for the most part "native." The East coast, largely banana lands, is inhabited by Jamaican negro laborers and white overseers. And the central region, a rich, red volcanic rimmed with mountains, is the home of European owners of the coffee farms, and the "real" Costa Ricans—a pure Spaniard race of beautiful women and handsome, vigorous men with almost no trace of the mixture of races so apparent in other Central American countries.

TEXAN, LONG DEAD, AIDS TOWN MUSEUM

History of Bad Man Finances Big Building.

Bandera, Texas.—Sam Bass would turn over in his outlaw's grave if he knew how his deeds of violence had been utilized by a peace-loving society in the establishment of one of its most tranquil institutions—a museum.

For Sam Bass, whose career of crime added to the color if not the well-being of early-day Texas, was the foe of peace, and his nature was by no means compatible with the musty, static atmosphere of a repository for dust-gathering relics.

Sam was forced into his inconsistent role by J. Marvin Hunter, whose "The Frontier Times" has made this community, 47 miles distant from a railroad, known wherever the magazine is circulated.

Hunter, a little more than ten years ago, left the composing room of the San Antonio, Texas, Express, and came here to buy a small country weekly. With him he brought an idea and a scrapbook—and little else.

The scrapbook was filled with first hand, autobiographical accounts of stirring events in Texas history written by the pioneers who lived through them. His idea was that these events, supplemented by accounts of others he expected to gather, would make interesting reading for Texans everywhere and for others for whom the making of a great state might hold fascination.

"The Frontier Times" prospered, gained thousands of readers throughout Texas and the nation and abroad. Books came in their course to supplement the magazine, all published here.

Along with the multitude of colorful facts he dug up, Hunter collected items resilient of Texas, including fossils, peculiar rock formations, Indian relics and museum pieces from the era of pioneers. The collection finally overran the small print shop.

Hunter determined to build a museum to house his collection. But a museum would have to be financed. Here Sam Bass, long in his grave after the battle of Round Rock in which he was killed, came to the rescue.

Hunter had written a book, "Authentic History of Sam Bass and His Gang." Hunter decided to market enough copies to pay for the museum buildings.

Among the museum pieces are hundreds of relics including rifles, pistols, muskets, spinning wheels, saddles, cooking utensils and farm tools, lariats, spurs, powder horns, bullet molds, and photographs of early Texans including rangers and desperadoes.

Swarm of Cats Problem for California Rancher

Byron, Calif.—Henry Millson, local rancher, felt the need of one good cat to exterminate the rats on his place. He mentioned his need to Constable Toke Le Grand.

Millson failed to take into consideration the obvious overproduction of cats in this vicinity. By noon, 50 cats had arrived at his ranch. Millson became worried. By nightfall there were 72 cats on the job, five of whom arrived by express from a neighboring town. Millson became panicky and carefully locked all doors and windows in his house.

By noon the next day, he had more than one hundred cats waiting for lunch. They had eaten all the mice and rats on the place and were becoming hungry again.

Millson frantically broadcast an appeal to persons desiring cats. No one came to claim any of them, and now he is wondering how he can rid himself of the many felines.

Cat Deserts Own Kittens to Nurse Coyote Pups

Chico, Ariz.—A Persian cat owned by William P. Horsey became so enamored with four tiny coyote pups that she forsook her own kittens to nurse them. The pups were found in a field near here. She nursed them until they were weaned and then she was brought up on row's row.

Foot-Propelled Rowboat

The car as a means of propelling

a small boat was devised centuries

ago and has held its place despite the repeated efforts made to dis-

place it with something that might prove more desirable. Many contrivances have been offered but small boats continue to be moved by the use of oars. Another contraption is a mechanical device which is collapsible for easy transportation

and it may be readily secured to the stern of any boat. It has a propeller and in appearance is much like the outboard motor but it is operated by foot power so that the hands and arms of the operator are free, which is a decided advantage

if he desires to devote his attention to fishing.

Subcloud Car Is Novel Feature of Army Blimp

Washington.—The army air corps has a new non-rigid airship, the largest "blimp" ever built in this country. A feature of the new ship is a "subcloud" car, which can be lowered from the cabin by cable and windlass, for a distance of 1,000 feet.

The "subcloud" car has room for an observer, who can direct movements of the ship with a telephone whenever the ground may be obscured from the ship proper by clouds or fog.

The new airship is 200 feet long and weighs 11 tons. It has quarters for six men and can carry supplies for a five-day cruise. Named the TC-13, the ship will be based at Langley field, Va., after tests at Wright field, Dayton, Ohio, and will be used mainly for coast guard patrol work.

Sitting Bull Not Chief, but Influential Leader

Sitting Bull, whose Indian name was Tatanka Yotanka, was a Sioux, born in 1834 (or 1837) in what later became South Dakota.

His father was a warrior, but never a chief. Sitting Bull was not himself a war chief, though he led his people in some of the most sanguinary fighting of the plains wars. He was in his youth a medicine man, and afterward a preacher and politician—even a prophet, for he claimed the power of divining the intentions of the Great Spirit, and gave to the conflicts in which he figured something of the character of a holy war.

In 1879 he commanded the band of hostile Sioux which ambushed Custer and massacred his troops on the Little Horn river, Montana.

Following the battle, Sitting Bull fled to Canada, where he remained for four years. He then returned and surrendered himself and his followers to the white man under promise of amnesty.

Although apparently submissive, he cherished an unyielding hostility, and was one of the first to join the new outbreak of the Sioux in the early winter of 1890. It was in this conflict, in December, 1890, that he was killed near Fort Yates, North Dakota, while he and other rebellious Sioux were resisting arrest by the Indian police.
